The Village of Friendship Heights will sponsor a multi-media exhibition in conjunction with its 100th birthday. The exhibit will reflect the world a century ago. Historic events, notable people, fashions and automobiles are all possible subjects for paintings, photographs, fiber works, calligraphy, and, small sculpture. Painting in the manner of artists a century ago is another suggestion. The exhibition is open to all artists.

Coordinator

Noted artist Millie Shott is the art curator of the Friendship Heights Village Center. Her paintings hang in many public and private collections. She is an instructor at the Smithsonian, in her studio, and, at the Village Center.
